RESET BUTTON: The Dollar

The other option is for us to go to the G20, who is waiting anxiously to start their One World Government...

By Dan Celia

The big question this year is about "the dollar" - as we see some enthusiasm in the markets and people thinking that the Recession is coming to an end (as opposed to postponing the inevitable) - and this has me a bit concerned. I have seen numerous articles written by various people, of whom some are economists, and some are theologians or CFOs, and some who have never worked in the financial markets at all. After all, the economy is what is on a lot people's minds - so we are seeing commentary from everybody. The question I am hearing more and more these days is whether the dollar is going to collapse. I don't think the real question is whether the Dollar is going to collapse ...or even whether the Country is going to collapse. I think the question is (if we stay on this path): When is this going to happen? (See my comments on this website in Dan's View to see what I believe we need to see happen to save us - My 2010 Wish List).

America (we taxpayers) will pay close to $700 Billion Dollars in interest payments on our debt. In the next four or five years, that will easily be a Trillion Dollars. A Trillion Dollars in interest! Can you imagine adding a trillion dollars to the trillions of dollars we are already in debt - every year?

There is one thing that this government has not yet figured out. More regulation will not fix the problem, and certainly more stimulus is not going to fix the problem. The only way this problem would have gotten fixed is to have taken a stance of NO STIMULUS - NO BAILOUTS - NO BIGGER GOVERNMENT, starting back at the Bear Stearns' bailout after March 17, 2008 - when the share price was $2.00 off its peak of $169.00. On the verge of collapse, Bear Stearns was bought by JP Morgan for a fraction of its former value, with backing of the US Federal Reserve - the first bailout.

That was the start of what ushered in the ideology that will go down in history as the start of the collapse of America - if we don't change course. Look at Jeremiah 18 :10-12: If it (a nation: my words) does evil in My sight so that it does not obey My voice, then I will relent concerning the good with which I said I would benefit it. "Now therefore, speak to the men of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "Behold, I am fashioning a disaster and devising a plan against you. Return now everyone from his evil way, and make your ways and your doings good."" And they said, "That is hopeless! So we will walk according to our own plans, and we will every one obey the dictates of his evil heart." I know that, even though there are parallels to today, Jeremiah was prophesying about what we know has already happened. My point is to observe the nature of God. He does not want us to forfeit our preferred status as a Nation under God. He wants us to turn back to good for the sake of the blessed status He has given us. We must not be like the world that would say "That is hopeless." If we give up, it will be hopeless; we as God's people cannot stop fighting.

Back to the topic - A Stimulus Package without the creation of smaller government and without giving incentives for growth will always lead to another stimulus package. That stimulus package (with the same ideology) will lead to another stimulus package, and another. The government will continue to try to spend their way out of this economy, but it is not going to happen. The only thing that will change this economy is a major change in Washington DC...a change in ideology and a change in the majority of the politicians who are making rules, laws and regulations and creating more spending - against the will of the people. It is interesting how they believe that they know what is best for the Country, when they are probably the least in tune with what is going on in this Country.

The questions we need to ask are... Is this near-collapse the end? Are we recovering, or was this collapse merely a prelude to what is to come? Make no mistake about it - what we have just gone through in the past two years is not a collapse of the economy or simply a bad recession. What we have just gone through is a small picture of what is to come. In five to ten years, if we do not do something VERY QUICKLY, we will look favorably on a mere 10% Unemployment.

There will be a point when the printing of money and the constant spending of money will lead to a collapse such as we have never before seen. There will be a time when the dollar simply does not work anymore. When that happens, don't go running to your gold, or your foreign currencies or precious metals. Most of those things will be illegal or you will be selling them on the black market. We will, at that time, experience what real poverty is.

It is the Federal Reserve, the government and their policies and regulations, which have distorted this market. If WE, the AMERICAN VOTERS, do not do something quickly to change those policies - we are going to see devastation beyond description.

At some point in time, the government will wake up, if we continue down this road, and then realize that none of the stimulus has worked, none of the spending worked, none of the debt has worked, none of the printing more dollars has worked, none of the increased regulation on the banking/financial sector has worked. None of that will work and the only thing that will be left to do is to inflate our way out of this. At that point, our economy will be so far down the road that, along with our debt problem, it will be impossible to inflate our way out of it. But I do believe they will have no choice but to try. It will not work.

There will only be two other options at that point. One option will be to go into a world war. Hopefully that will not be the option exercised. The other option is for us to go to the G20, who is waiting anxiously to start their One World Government. The attitude among the G20 is going to be very simple. The United States of America is too big to fail (I think we have heard that before). When that happens, someone will come up with the brilliant idea to push the RESET BUTTON.

It may be hard to believe that America, as part of the G20, has the largest GDP of any country. The only country even close to us is Japan - but only half our size. Of course, that will be one reason why we will be too big to fail.

The Reset Button will be very simple - take a worthless dollar, along with all the major world currencies, and create one currency. Then they will make everything even, and reset, and start all over again under one currency.

Obviously there are going to be billions of dollars and thousands of plans for regulation over this One World Currency. That will, of course, lead to World Courts of Law, a World Congress, and of course, a One World Government. (Have you read that somewhere before?)

The question about whether the dollar is devaluing should not be the question. The big question should be: WHEN is it going to happen? I am relatively certain that, if we continue down the path we are on right now, it will happen within the next ten years. This is not some disaster that our grandchildren will have to live with. This is a disaster that we - most of us - will have to live with.

Remember, the G20 has already called for a universal form of regulation and by-laws which will govern the global financial world. The Financial Stability Board, made up of Central Banks from each of the G20 nations, have already begun to set the wheels in motion to create a global financial system to supposedly avoid this kind of catastrophe from happening again. At the G20 Summit in Pittsburgh last September, President Obama declared "all nations must come together to build a stronger global regime." I cannot imagine any nation in the G20 thinking there is anything better than finally bringing the United States of America - this economic powerhouse - to their knees, and on the same level which they are. Can you? I think that is called Redistribution of Wealth - only on a global scale.

When I say that this is going to happen in the next ten years or so, or even in our lifetimes, I do not want to start putting a date on anything, because we could certainly start tying that into the time which Scripture talks about as the Time of Tribulation. According to Scripture, a one-world governmental and financial system will be in place during the Tribulation Period. I certainly do not want to appear as though I am putting any kind of timeline on that, because I am not.

I am purely looking at the mathematics of the situation. It is very simple. When we look at the income stream that this government has created, there is no way that there could be an income stream that could possibly support the kind of debt which we have. If you took all the profits from every company in the S&P 500 it would not be enough to pay our debt - so increasing taxes, though likely, is not a solution. Remember, the entire time that we are creating this incredible debt, we are also continuing to spend. So, it is not as though we are creating a stimulus package on the back of trying to create smaller government or creating growth and jobs. Do not forget that jobs create payroll taxes, and payroll taxes are considered income to the government.

So, what can we do? Obviously, first and foremost, we need to be PRAYING. We need to be praying that God would not remove His blessing from this Country. Commit to reading Jeremiah 17 and 18 this week. We need to be praying that God would bless us, and bless the upcoming elections in November; and that God would continue to bless and raise up people who are willing to go to Washington and make real change - the kind of change which is built upon ethics, morals, character, integrity and godly values, and built upon the absolutes of Scripture and the values upon which this Country was built.

What we need to do is that everywhere we go, and in everything we write or say, and in every conversation we have - we need to expound upon the need for us all to get involved in politics. We need to literally get involved in saving this Country. Like a soldier who would go to battle for our freedoms and liberties as in the Revolutionary War, or to fight back Communism - we need to protect our shores and our Country. We need to fight like soldiers of the United States of America for this Country. We are blessed today because we do not need to pick up arms. We do need to pick up phones and pens, fax machines and emails.

We need to organize Tea Parties and Town Hall Meetings. We must continue to create peaceful but effective movements which are too big for the media to ignore. We need to do it for our children and our grandchildren. We need to do this because we are Patriots and because we love this Country, and we believe in what she was built upon and what she stands for. This Country was built upon the Bible. Some may deny that, but we know it to be a fact and we need to bring it back. If you know a politician who is running based on these values, or even considering it, encourage them - and then work hard to see that they win.

Let's fight this battle with every fiber of our beings. Let's take back America. Let's put back a Representative Government - We had better do it quickly!
