60 Days In Jail + A Fine for Home Bible Study

A Phoenix Arizona man was sentence to 60 days in county slammer for hosting Bible studies in his home.

To ad insult to injury Michael Salman has been fined to dish out more than $12,000 in fines and he has been placed on three years of probation, all for using his private residence to host weekly Bible studies with friends and Church members.

The Phoenix city prosecutor's office said he violated city building codes, that's right building codes by hosting a regular gathering in his home.

The battle between the Salman family and the city has been going on for nearly five years. In mid 2009, nearly a dozen police, along with city inspectors, swarmed Mr. Salman's home for his lawless deeds.

And yet, others are allowed to have block parties, Mary Kay and Pampered Chef parties without a permit. It makes one wonder if the Gestapo would employe the same tactics if during football season one had a football party every Sunday at their home to watch NFL games?

“We want to stand for not only our beliefs but for every believer in Phoenix that wants to host a Bible study in their home, that they can do it without fear of the city coming in and saying, 'No, this is no longer just your home. This needs to become a church,'” Suzanne Salman said.

Salman said hosting weekly Bible studies is the same as anyone else hosting weekly poker games.

But the Arizona courts have consistently ruled against him. They decreed that he was running a “church” out of his home and said the city did not violate his constitutional rights to religious freedom.

Dear Brothers & Sisters It coming very soon to all God’s people, will we be ready??
